TXF New York 2018

Following the success of TXF New York 2017, we are pleased to return to Midtown Manhattan for the second edition of this unique conference, focusing on the exciting changes occurring across the trade, supply chain, and treasury sectors.

Trade finance is on the cusp of a great transformation. The emergence of new technologies and game-changing innovations, has seen the tapping of new pools of talent that have brought fresh perspectives to a once conservative sector. Now opportunities abound to truly disrupt the industry, with a goal to make processes simpler, faster, more efficient, and more secure.

These changes will ultimately benefit corporate end-users, and TXF has invited treasurers, risk managers, and supply chain specialists to share their experiences with technology, finance, and service providers.

In an entertaining, innovative, and interactive environment, we will explore the latest developments in technology, working capital optimization, sustainability, regulation, risk mitigation, and cash management, to give you the best insight into where the market stands
