The importance of 'Creative Operations' - the integration of creativity and technology that maximizes productivity in the creative production process - is being increasingly recognized by leading organizations. What was considered a back office function is fast becoming a key driver in producing great creative work.

We invite you to join our community for its ninth meeting this May at Creative Operations New York 2019. Attendees will have a platform to learn from, share with and network among the very best the industry has to offer - including experts from; Nike, Google, Nickelodeon, Prudential and Victoria Secret.

The full day's agenda is designed to equip attendees with a Creative Operations Toolbox that will help you to; meet the demand for real-time content production, overcome pitfalls in your creative process, create meaningful reports and dashboards using data, standardise your intake process to drive workflow efficiencies and determine if agile project management suits your team.

This event is for all Leaders, VPs, Directors and Managers responsible for Creative Operations, Creative Services, Creative Production, Project Management, Marketing Operations, Marketing, Integrated Production, Production Management, Brand Management, Studio Services, Digital Photo Services, Print Services, and Traffic Management.
